

The Department of Transportation estimates that 75% of delays are caused by weather. You can avoid those weather delays by using KnowDelay, your on-time partner.

Twice a week, the KnowDelay team of experts and pilots synthesizes complex sets of data and reports to provide you a brief summary of potential flight delays. Here are the highlights from today's Delay Outlook:

- High pressure will dominate much of the country, pushing out the winter weather that has impacted the Southeast.
- Extreme Southeast will experience rain showers and associated delays Thursday and Friday.
- Snow is expected along the upper Midwest and Ohio valley states Thursday and Friday. Delays are possible.
- Rain showers are possible in the Southwest as we head into the weekend. Delays are possible.

Visit the KnowDelay website to see exactly what airports will be impacted, and which ones will not. KnowDelay can also monitor your flights so you'll be ready for any potential delay.
