Improving conditions for Mother's day, except...

Low pressure across most of the country East of the Rockies will move offshore over the coming days. As it does, rain showers and thunderstorms will be experienced before high pressure and better conditions fill in. Newark continues to be in the news and the KnowDelay team is adapting to make sure our customers have the most accurate delay predictions. Our Flight Delay Forecast valid through Sunday, May 11th. Happy Mother's Day.

- Rain showers and thunderstorms will persist across the South, Southeast, Ohio Valley and Northeast on Thursday, resulting in associated delays.
- Storms will move further East, leaving most of the country clear, except the extreme Southeast and Northeast (e.g. EWR) on Friday and Saturday.
- Sunday, most of the country will be experience good weather and few delays, except the extreme Southeast, where the risk of storms will continue.

The Department of Transportation estimates that 75% of flight delays are caused by weather. Use KnowDelay to see exactly what airports will be impacted, and which ones will not. KnowDelay can monitor your flights so you'll be ready for any potential delay.
